The Borough of Stourbridge is in North Worcestershire, twelve miles from Birmingham and ten miles from Wolverhampton. Though on the edge of the industrial Black Country, it is a pleasant residential town with rural country to the south and west. The principal industries of the locality are the manufacture of fire bricks and refractories, and of iron, steel, hardware and glass products as well as skin rugs and chamois leather. Stourbridge fire clay and crystal glass are world famous.

The area of the Borough is 4,214 acres, the rateable value at 1st April, 1949, was £193,517 and the population (estimated at December, 1948) 36,760.

A Guide to the Borough may be obtained upon application to the Town Clerk, Council House, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, England.
